

Minnesota Conservation Leadership Corps

Have you ever dreamed of being a leader in the conservation field?

Being the next Aldo Leopold? Sigurd F. Olson? Jane Goodall? John Muir?

If you are passionate about the outdoors and want to play a role in the future of conservation in your community and Minnesota here is an opportunity for you!

The Minnesota Conservation Leadership Corps is starting its second class this fall of 2017 in Minnesota. It is based off the successful Conservation Leadership Corps programs in Wisconsin and Missouri and will be once again run by the Minnesota Conservation Federation the Minnesota state affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation. This is a program that gives students training and experience in leadership, communication, advocacy, policy and additional opportunities to network with leaders and professionals in the Minnesota conservation community. The training takes place over the course of four sessions and is conducted by leaders and professionals throughout the school year taking place on a Saturday at a central location in the state.

- Leadership Training Session: Fellows will read a text on leadership prior to starting the program, and will develop those leadership ideas with an instructor at the first session. Fellows will learn about the multiple stakeholders involved in issues, and complete activities to help them build leadership skills. Takes place sometime in September-October.
- Communication/Advocacy Training Session: Fellows will complete activities, such as role-playing a specific stakeholder in an issue, and then giving testimony and meeting with different "legislators" (also role-played) to advocate for their character's viewpoint. At the end of this session fellows will pick a conservation issue in the state of Minnesota, and divide into teams to research that issue for the next session. Takes place sometime in November.
- Policy/Resolution Writing Session: Fellows will come back together and meet with an expert on the topic they've picked to ask questions and receive feedback as they write a resolution. The resolutions are based on their research and take into account the expert's experience on the topic. The resolutions ultimately seek to change policy or actions on an issue in an attempt to improve a conservation challenge in Minnesota. Takes place sometime in February.
- Final Session: Fellows will get together to present their resolutions to the Minnesota Conservation Federation and Sponsors of the Minnesota Conservation Leadership Corps. Their resolutions will be voted on, and if passed, sent to the stakeholders the resolution includes in attempting to improve the problem. Takes place sometime in March-April

All the expenses in the program are covered by the Minnesota Conservation Federation and organizations sponsoring the program. So we highly recommend you to check out these groups as well because they are doing a great service to the community and our students by supporting developing the next generation of conservation leaders in our state! Additionally many of them have youth programs, scholarships, and job opportunities for students as well. The Conservation Leadership Corps Sponsors and Instructors will also provide a great networking opportunity for the students with local, community, state, federal, private, and non-profit organizations.
